Recent Operations

By Paul Hardin

By Stewart Hancock (Pinch-Hitting Paul Hardin)

Congratulations to the winners; to the losers, better luck next time, maybe.

The "auto-ruler"—a motor bus that can shift from rubber tires to flange wheels while in motion—was demonstrated in Tallahassee recently before State Road department officials and railroad executives. The new transportation device is intended for the use of railroads in moving freight both on rails and highways.—State Road Department Journal. This is not a surprise by any means, for the past few years the State and trailers have been getting bigger and larger and most of them are driven by road bugs who make life miserable for the motorists and now that the railroads are planning to place railroads on the highways, the automobile will have the thoroughfares for pleasure will necessarily be compelled to be doubly careful.

The run-off for the nomination in the 2nd congressional district was held on Tuesday night at the home of Herbert Beck of Belle Glade and Paul Hardin of Canal Point. And beginning next week, the race soon as the candidates get a little rest, they will take the field again. Mr. Hardin is very appreciative of the assistance of the State Road department which gave him last Tuesday but he realizes that the fight has not been won until the final count on Tuesday, June 23.

So many things have happened since I took the fatalistic Royal in my lap last week and fingered out a few brain cells that I hardly know what subject to pick out first. Of course every one in the state knows that an election was held on last Tuesday when the electorate went to the polls and cast their votes for their favorite candidate. It was like picking a fresh, new subject to write about when trying to pick a winner in the governor's race—some voted to be the leading candidate and not for the qualifications of the candidate—the best qualified man doesn't always win. Past elections have proven that. Whoever goes into the general election as the Democratic nominee is my candidate. That's what I pledged when I signed the registration book.

On account of the length of the ballot and the experience of the voters, some precincts did not get through with the count until late Wednesday afternoon.

But speaking of congressmen, that fellow Zionscheck, who represents the 2nd Washington Congressional district, has made a complete area of himself and went to newspaper accounts from the nation's capital. During the first term of Zionscheck it is stated he was so quiet and so unobtrusive that his fellow members often remarked that he was the quietest member of the body. But after six months or so his foot slipped and after a few shots of that vile piggle water he began to open up and as a result his escapades with the police ever more than two pages on the department's docket. He has crowded more into six months than most congressmen can get in a life time. He's un-cured of his piggy nature in a hospital now and will probably after a few shots of phio, brofides, etc., he'll be himself again. But—after the dance the rider must be paid!

Of course it wasn't that that group picture which appeared in one of the late candidate's advertisements reminds one of the celebrated Wilkes family?

I think I quit for this week.

74th Congress Sets New High Record For Expenditures

By W. H. (H) LAWRENCE

Who was nominated in last Tuesday's election for Sheriff of Palm Beach county.

Passage of the last of this session's appropriations bills virtually closed the books this week on appropriations totaling more than $17,558,000,000 which have made the seventy-fourth congress the greatest spender in peace-time history since the nation's inception.

This session's appropriations have totaled more than $3,279,000,000, although that figure is still subject to a little wiggling before adjournment. Congress was only $1,300,000,000 less liberal this session than last year, when it appropriated a grand total of $8,579,756,510.

Relief and recovery were the main features in the record-breaking appropriations. Last year's relief needs caused President Roosevelt to ask—and congress to approve—the largest lump sum appropriation in the world's history, $4,000,000,000.

About three-fifths of the $2,425,000,000 deficiency bill passed by the senate Monday is for relief. A fund of $1,425,000,000 for President Roosevelt to spend in making jobs for the unemployed was the main feature of the bill. The same bill also carried additional hundreds of millions for the social security act, and the patchwork patchwork of the Roosevelt "recovery" program.

Money for recovery activities also was sprinkled through other deficiency and independent bills.

Congresses are numbered according to the terms of the lower chamber, where members are elected every two years. Unless special sessions are called, there are two sessions each congress, or one each year.

In contrast with the seventy-fourth congress appropriations, the new deal—third, first under the new deal—appropriated $11,902,837,555. The seventy-second, (Continued on Page Four)

Graduation Class Composed of 19; Given Diplomas

Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday Night With Final Exercises Wed.

The first of the closing exercises of the graduating class of the Pahoehoe high school was held on last Sunday night when the graduates, patrons and friends of the school attended the services with Rev. The speaker delivered a splendid message to the graduating class; he exhorted them to take advantage of the many opportunities that would come to them in the world of the future—the right side and come what may they would emerge with the knowledge that they had done their duty and would be the salutary.

The graduating exercises were held on Sunday night and the spacious auditorium was filled with patrons and friends of the school when diplomas, the reward of several years' study, were awarded to nineteen members of the class.

Diplomas were delivered to the following: Jessie Maloy, Clatie Mae Garner, Olga Humphries, Marie Long, Elizabeth Jameson, Ruth Jameson, Erin Jones, Mabel Rasmussen, Henry Harrison, Bill Hennessey, William D. ### Palm Beach Panel After Being Sworn In Issues Statement

Inquiry into reported violations of election laws in Palm Beach county was launched by the grand jury of the June term of Circuit court immediately after it was sworn in and organized last Tuesday. Over the name of L. J. House, its foreman, the investigating body issued the following statement:

"Many rumors have reached us regarding violations of election laws in Palm Beach county. This is to notify the citizens of this county that the grand jury will on Thursday, June 4, 1936, at 2 p. m., be in session at the courthouse, West Palm Beach, Fla., to hear any testimony that might be offered in connection with any of such violations.

"Your co-operation with us in this investigation will be appreciated. Court attaches quoted Judge C. E. Chillingworth as telling the jurors that apparently much trouble had been caused in the primary campaign and as suggesting that the jury might find it advisable to look into the situation.

Seventy Democratic candidates for county and district offices had reported spending about $15,000 on their combined campaigns when they filed their second statements of expense with the Circuit clerk last May.

Officials said the judge did not deliver a formal charge to the jury but exhorted the body until yesterday at 9:30 a. m. when it was expected he would charge them.

West Palm Beach To Celebrate The Glorious Fourth

5500 Fund Is Sought For Fireworks Recreation Dept. Sponsors

With July 4 little more than a month away, sponsors of the municipal fireworks program in West Palm Beach last Monday stressed the necessity for public interest to boost lagging contributions.

To date the fund stands at $65, a $50 donation from Superintendent of Public Works D. D. (Dad) Howard being the largest.

The city recreation department, with the backing of The Post-Times, is seeking to repeat the successful safe and sane July Fourth of last summer, when a beautiful display of fireworks in the evening provided entertainment for thousands of children and adults, replacing the dangerous and expensive fireworks banned by ordinance.

At least $500 is needed to put on the same type of display. Contributions are being asked of individuals, who would ordinarily spend money on fireworks for children, to give this amount to the public fund.

During the past week the shipments were as follows: Tomatoes 38 cars; potatoes 11 cars; celery 3 cars; peppers 2 cars; and other crops, making a total for the week 63 cars.

It was estimated that at least one-third as many packages were shipped out by truck to the northern markets. The remaining crop was consumed by local buyers and representatives of the Walchula Canning company have had representative here for the past week buying tomatoes and other vegetables.

He said a large sugar corporation which now has a mill at Clewiston, Fla., was ready to establish another mill at Canal Point if restrictions could be lifted so as to permit added operations.

Florida's Summer Time Attractions To Be Advertised for First Time

The healthful and enjoyable summertime recreation attractions of Florida will be advertised to millions of people for the first time in the state's history, according to an announcement from headquarters of the governor's all-Florida committee in Jacksonville. This national advertising campaign will represent the first definite action yet taken to popularize Florida in national markets for a year-round resort and vacation center. Newspapers will be used almost exclusively in the summer campaign.

A lasty check on figures available at the committee's headquarters in Jacksonville shows that nearly two million winter visitors came to Florida this year.

Of the $245,000,000 brought by tourists into Florida this past winter the United States department of commerce has furnished figures as the basis for a careful examination to show how the money was spent. According to a report issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce only twenty-five cents of every tourist dollar goes to hotels or transportation companies, that in turn spend seventeen cents locally. This directly or indirectly, ninety-two cents of every dollar, or in this case, approximately $223,500,000 has been brought into Florida business either in hotels or transportation companies by Florida's winter visitors during the 1935-36 season.

County Files Reply In Fight For Road District

Replies to Injunction Suit of South Florida Con. District

Legal battles between Palm Beach county and the South Florida Conservancy district over their respective rights to certain Everglades road rights of way were resumed in Circuit court last Saturday when the county filed an answer to the district's injunction suit.

The county had brought criminal proceedings against conservancy district workmen, seeking to prevent them from further obstructing a road on the north side of the Hillsboro canal by throwing up a spoil bank. The conservancy district, joined by the Everglades drainage district, used to enjoin prosecution of the criminal cases.

In its answer the county, through A. L. Rankin, Jr., its acting attorney, denied that it is necessary for the conservancy district to raise a dike on the north side of the Hillsboro canal to the height of 22½ feet above sea level for a distance of a mile southeast of Belle Glade, saying this obstructs a public road.

It traced proceedings by which the disputed area was declared a public highway a number of years ago and argued that the public's right to use of the road is superior to any rights of the complaining districts.

Glades Picture In Florida Grows

The photo was taken in the Big Cypress, down in the Everglades country, during a recent roundup. The cypress trees, with their "air plants," or Florida orchids, are an outstanding attraction to tourists.

The Florida cowboy differs materially from his western prototype, and yet is none the less picturesque. Instead of carrying a lariat, he uses a long whip, with which he can work wonders on the trail or open range. In addition to the whip, Florida range cattle use cattle dogs, which are trained to drive, and even to throw a cow or steer, for branding or other purposes. Incidentally, the use of the cattle whip originally gave rise to the term "Cracker."

This particular photograph was used recently in the Saturday Evening Post, to illustrate a Florida story by David M. Newell of Leesburg. It is reproduced by courtesy of that publication.

Hugo Boe Is Still High In Contest

Now that the Thursday half-holidays are in vogue we may expect other fishermen to go after the big ones and land one of the prizes.

FARMERS CASH INCOME AT HIGHEST SINCE 1930

A new six-year high in farmers' cash income is reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The total for the first four months of 1936 includes $2,017,000,000 from the first four months of 1935, the Bureau's report.

The first four months of 1936, the government rental and benefit payments. This compares with $1,749,000,000 from marketings in the first four months of 1935, and $2,000,000,000 from rentals and benefits.

"Government payments during the remainder of 1936 will likely exceed the payments in the same months of 1935," the Bureau's report states. "The total for the year will be in excess of the 1935 level."

At the completion of its third year on May 27, the Federal Farm Credit Administration had loaned $3,704,000,000 on more than 760,000 long-term first and second mortgage security through the Federal land banks and land bank commissioner. The applications covered about half of mortgaged cropland in the country. The FCA has also built up facilities for making short term loans and loans to farmers' cooperatives and the volume loaned through these institutions is not far short of the large amount advanced on farm mortgages through the FCA.

THE WASHING'S FINE!

Clothes may make some men... but they break some women. They break the women whose Mondays mean "wash days" and whose vitality is wasted over a wash tub. Or the women whose clothes are sent out to be rubbed to a premature death on a hand washboard.

Visit our office for a free demonstration of the modern electric way to wash and iron. See the effortless ease of the electric washer as it cleanses your clothes more thoroughly and gives them added life insurance. And notice, too, how the ironer enables you to sit down while it takes the work right out of your hands and does the job in one-third the time and with one-tenth the effort.

Phone us or the dealers listed for a free home demonstration, or see the special demonstration in our office.
